EDN, A EUROPEAN NETWORK FOR THE DANCE FIELD

- EDN works towards encouraging and facilitating all sorts of transnational collaboration in order to stimulate the sustainable development of contemporary dance ecosystems
- Contributing to building the capacities of dance professionals and organisations to access new learning and work opportunities, EDN aims at accompanying artistic practices and audience engagement
- EDN builds a sustainable and resilient future for the dance scene and improve its responsiveness towards new challenges emerging constantly in a rapidly changing world
- EDN advocates for the value(s) of the arts & culture as well as for shared EU values that translate into progressive human, social, economic, environmental and artistic perspectives

Established in 2009 in Barcelona, Spain, the European Dance Network (EDN) consists of 47 member organisations from 28 countries across Europe.

ENHANCING PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

Online forum to ponder and reflect on some of the urgent questions that underpin our artform in relation to audiences. How and why we connect, who is invited or excluded, who defines the parameters that ultimately shape our artform, what does the future hold for dance and its audience?

Themes:

- Who's invited?
- The End of Touring?
- Size Matters?
- Online consultation to co-design contents

FIND US ONLINE...
